

DID YOU KNOW?

- ✓ The American Academy of Pediatrics endorses collaboration between home visitors and medical homes to offer strategic ways to integrate and improve services for children and families.
- ✓ According to the Virginia Pregnancy Risk Assessment and Monitoring System (PRAMS), enrollment in Home Visitation prenatally leads to less pre-term delivery, higher birth weight, and increased breastfeeding rates.
- ✓ Research from North Carolina Linkages for Prevention showed when home visitors worked with a medical home there were higher numbers of well child care visits completed and lower likelihood of being seen in the ER.
- ✓ REACH-Futures in Chicago demonstrated improved immunization and retention rates in the medical home when families participated in home visiting.
